Artist and art historian, Elisabetta Coccia, will be hosting an art talk for the group on artist, printer, poet and mystic, William Blake. She will be looking to Blake's visionary philosophies in his art and writings to see if these might apply to our modern world in view of climate change.

Blake actually lived locally in Felpham between 1800-1803 and was inspired by nature in our area.
The Blake Cottage Trust is currently working hard to renovate his cottage to open to the public in 2027 to share this exciting cultural landmark with the world.
